Alma Mater

Hail, Alma Mater!

*To thy spirit guiding
Pledge we fidelity,
By thy name abiding.
Armored in courage,
Ne'er from battle hiding,
Fearless—each loyal son.*

*For through the darkness
Like a lamp is shining
Knowledge, thy handmaid,
In her strength combining
With lofty brotherhood
Ne'er her place resigning.
Hail, thee, George Washington!*

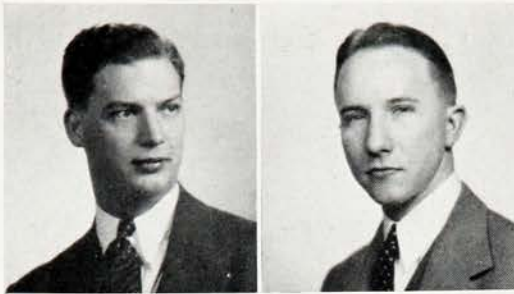

*For, as thy patron
Midst the battle's dinning,
Clear-eyed and fearless
Saw his forces winning,
So for the war of life
Which we are beginning
Arm us, George Washington.*

LIFE OF A LEGAL LANTERN

George Washington University's Legal Lantern is its Law School, and, like everything else, its life began with its birth. Founded in 1826, the first law school in the District of Columbia, it is venerable and honorable in its field today. Its father was Professor Cranch, its foster-father, Professor Carroll, and its mother was their intellectual inspiration and desire to further superior legal training.

The Law School was reestablished in 1865 with a faculty of legal luminaries. The course of instruction for the Bachelor of Laws Degree was increased from two to three years in 1898. Master of Laws courses were added in 1877 and in 1911 the doors were opened to coeds. In 1925, the Law School was given a new home, Stockton Hall, named in honor of the late Rear Admiral Charles Herbert Stockton, President of the University from 1910 to 1919. In 1926, the high scholastic attainments of its students, graduates, and faculty were nationally recognized by the granting of a charter of the Order of the Coif, legal honor society.

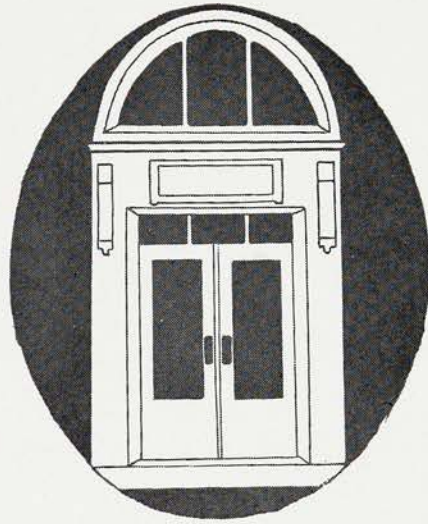

In the past, the Law School participated in the organization of the Association of American Law Schools in 1900 and has been an active member ever since. It has won the approval of the Council of Legal Education of the American Bar Association.

Recently another milestone was passed—the requirement of a college degree for entrance—a step characteristic of the high standards of legal education borne by the George Washington University Law School.

This year, under the guidance of a brilliant faculty, the Law School has sponsored a symposium on Administrative Law, bringing together the foremost authorities in the United States on the subject; has enlarged, from four to eight issues, the George Washington Law Review, a publication devoted exclusively to federal and public law and edited by honor students; and has sponsored the formulation of a Student Bar Association, which is administered by the students and designed to bridge the gap between classroom and courtroom.

The Law School is justly proud of its library, faculty, and illustrious alumni found in every state of the Union in positions of trust and honor, in public office, administering the affairs of the state and nation, in private practice, on the bench, at the bar. They have been materially aided in their climb to success by the solid foundation of legal ethics, ideals, knowledge and inspiration given them at George Washington. Today graduates of the Law School are an admired and respected group of well-trained, intelligent, worth-while citizens, and not the least part of this is because of the background given them by their studies in the classrooms of Stockton Hall and its quiet library.

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

The Oath of Hippocrates

I swear by Apollo, the physician, by Aesculapius, by Hygeia, Panacea, and all the gods and goddesses, that according to my ability and judgment I will keep this oath and stipulation: to reckon him who teaches me this art equally dear with my parents; to share my substance with him and to relieve his necessities if required; to look upon his offspring upon the same footing as my own brothers; and to teach them this art if they shall wish to learn it; without fee or stipulation and that by precept, lecture, and by every other mode of instruction I will impart a knowledge of this art to my own sons, to those of my teachers and to disciples bound by a stipulation and oath, according to the law of medicine, but to no others. I will follow that system of regimen which, according to my best judgment, I consider best for my patients and abstain from whatever is injurious. I will give no deadly medicine to any one if asked nor suggest any such counsel. Furthermore, I will not give to a woman an instrument to procure abortion. With purity and holiness will I pass my life and practice my art. I will not cut a person who is suffering with stone but will leave this to be done by those who are practitioners of such work. Into whatever houses I enter I will go for the advantage of the sick and I will abstain from every voluntary act of mischief and corruption and further, from the seduction of females or males, bond or free. Whatever in connection with my professional practice or not in connection with it, I may see or hear, I will not divulge, holding that all such things should be kept secret. While I continue to keep this oath inviolate, may it be granted to me to enjoy life and the practice of my art, respected always by all men; but should I break through and violate this oath, may the reverse be my lot.

FEBRUARY 7, 1939

Doctor Earl Baldwin McKinley came to The George Washington University as Dean of the School of Medicine in 1931 at the age of 37. His notable accomplishments as a scientist and administrator were already such that his selection for this important post by the President and Trustees of the University was indorsed by the enthusiastic approval of the entire staff of the medical school.

To this satisfaction concerning his ability was soon added the pleasure of personal friendships, evoked by his own characteristic sympathy and love of companionship. This was shown by his talent for bringing together in social relations men of widely diverse interests in the medical sciences from the most distant parts of the world. This striking feature of his character was no mere sentiment to be felt and talked about, but was a strong motivating force, which was made to work for the benefit and pleasure of anyone whom he knew. To illustrate this feature, many examples might be given. One alone will suffice. Under the auspices of the Student Society, fostered by him and named in honor of Theobald Smith, Walter Reed, and Frederick F. Russell, all former professors of this school, he brought before the students and faculty as visiting speakers men of deserved renown in all the sciences related to medicine, so that those who had been known to the young men only as a name in medical literature became living, inspiring personalities. The value of such relationships to the school can hardly be over estimated. Happily, it still continues.

He enhanced the prestige of the school by bringing members of the faculty into creditable activity in the many scientific organizations with which he himself was identified as a leading spirit.

To the practicing clinician, he was a competent and gracious consultant in those diseases in which his far travels and peculiarly rich experience made him an expert.

His interests were indeed as wide as the world; his productive research increased our knowledge of the various diseases affecting plant, animal and human life. His "Cartography of Disease" emphasized the fact that, while disease is international, science is one.

When he was lost with the Transpacific Clipper Hawaii, July 29th, 1938, we believe he met his death, as we know he enjoyed life: in step with the most advanced progress, on the frontiers of knowledge, going at top speed, full of zest and intelligent enthusiasm for the unknown.

By his untimely death, science lost an ardent devotee, and his many friends a good companion.

Being reminded of the manner of his exitus, we must recall the simple appropriate lines:

*"How can man die better
Than facing fearful odds,
For the ashes of his fathers
And the temples of his Gods?"*

HISTORY, CLASS OF 1939

PROLEGOMENA

In nineteen hundred thirty-five
A band of neophytes
Began a four-year journey
To scale the dizzy heights.
On old Olympus' topmost top
Awaited a degree,
For those who made the hazardous grade,
The title of M.D.

FIRST YEAR

It's a noble thing to learn the art
Of making people well,
But the first six weeks of Med School are
The worst this side of hell.
Anatomy is difficult,
The grades are low, they say;
Poems are made by fools with "C," but
Only God can make an "A."
Histology induces pain
With weeks of endless toil;
The cure is massive doses
Of good old midnight oil.
The mysteries of neurology,
We probe them by the hour,
Like detectives tracing up and down
The tract of old Lissauer.
Physiology is rampant
With arrows on the rise;
We watch the vicious circles form
Beneath our classmates' eyes.
Bacteria are active bugs,
They outdo us by far;
Though a hanging drop will make them
hop,
We're always under par.
Chemistry is over on the
Amino acid side;
Many of our comrades fall,
And to the depths they slide.

SECOND YEAR

Of all the ecstasies of life
That thrill men to the core,
The greatest is a freshman's joy
When he's a sophomore.
The steep ascent is not without
Its moments bright and merry;
Even conscientious travelers pause
To pluck a mountain berry.
Oh, many thanks for memories of Those nights of misspent youth,
For Alpha Kappa Kappa's beer,
And Phi Chi's dark phone booth.
Enough of this frivolity,
Pathology is here;
We learn a teratoma
Was once a blastomere.
Pharmacology has also come
To tax our aching brains;
Changing auto tires is fun compared
With changing grams to grains.
Upon the poor professor
The eager boys converge,
Fighting to impress him with
Their scientific urge;
Hot competition fills the air
With groveling grunts and grapples;
The primrose path of politics
Is paved with polished apples.

THIRD YEAR

Gallinger, great citadel,
Unfurl your gleaming banners!
The junior class approaches, armed
With books and bedside manners.
Inspection is the first step,
Palpation is the next;
Its purpose is to note a thrill,
According to the text.
Percussion done, then auscultate
The patients, row on row;
A bit of Argyll-Robertson,
Those eyes of Old Black Joe.
And back at school, a gastric course
Our many lectures take;
Differential diagnosis
Of a stubborn belly-ache.
Onward to study of the heart,
Its magnitude perplexes;
What unabashed capriciousness
Have QRS complexes!
The time has come, the surgeons say,
To talk of many things;
Of fractured arms and hernias
That poke through inguinal rings;
Of veins that may be varicose,
And shoulders out of joint,
Of tenderness exquisite
Around MacBurney's point.

FOURTH YEAR

Headaches come from many causes,
Hangovers make one groan;
But the task of seeking internships
Has a migraine of its own.
This problem solved, the bugle sounds,
And calls us to O. B.;
The stork we race from place to place,
Will he win, or will we?
In clean unstriped pajamas,
With matching sterile hat,
We aid in operations;
Please pass the hemostat.
Pediatrics of herbs and curds,
And infants undersized;
Neurology is out to get
All lesions localized.
In Urology, the G. U. tract
Is not a Georgetown trail;
In E. N. T. we are amazed—
Salpingitis in the male!
But now the final lecture's done,
The books are pushed aside;
For one brief hour our chests protrude,
Emphysematous with pride.
From Bageant, Ed, to Wilson, Herb,
We answer to the roll,
The dyspneic Class of 'Thirty-nine
Has clambered to its goal.

EPICRISIS

At last the climb has reached its end,
The summit has been gained;
But far beyond lie loftier peaks
That yet must be attained.
From the valley of the freshmen,
This mountain seemed so high;
But it's just a foothill on the way
To towers that brush the sky.

Founded in 1894, under the leadership of Miss Mary Charlotte Priest, A.B. 1893, A.M. 1901, Columbian Women is the largest and most active women's organization in The George Washington University. The advancement of women in educational work has been for many years one of the principal objectives of the Columbian Women. A substantial scholarship fund has been built up from life membership dues and a large number of scholarships have been granted to women students in the University.

Columbian Women has always maintained close contact with the University administration and gives its full support to the promotion of all interests of the University. This year the organization gave a benefit card party to raise funds for the Women's Activities Building. The proceeds from that party constituted the first gift received by the University for the proposed new building. Special mention also should be made at this time of the generous gift of Columbian Women to the University of funds for a room in the Lisner Library, now under construction. This room, to be called the Columbian Women Room, is located on the first floor immediately to the right of the main entrance.

The following are eligible for active membership in Columbian Women: Any woman who for one year has been a regularly registered student in the University, provided she shall have received credit for thirty semester hours of work; any woman member of the Faculties or Board of Trustees; any woman on the Administrative Staff; the wife or recognized head of the household of any member of the Faculties, Board of Trustees, or the Administrative Staff; and any woman recipient of an honorary degree from the University. Graduate women students and wives of graduate men students are eligible for associate membership, having all privileges of membership except those of voting and holding office.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CLASS OF 1939 FROM THE ALUMNI

Dear Alumnus:

May we send you through the medium of this page our greetings and an invitation to join with us in our work "to promote the general welfare of the University." By reason of your graduation you are automatically a member of the Association for one year without payment of dues. After that, annual dues are one dollar, or a life membership may be had for ten dollars.

The Alumni Association serves also to strengthen the personal ties among the graduates of the University by means of regular alumni meetings, luncheons, and other activities. Wherever you go, whatever you do, remember to maintain your membership in the Alumni Association and keep us informed of your activities. Your classmates will be interested in reading about you in the class notes of the Alumni Review.

If you are establishing yourself outside of Washington, D. C., let us know so that we may place you in contact with other alumni and our alumni clubs.

Our professional groups—Law, Medicine, Library Science, and Engineering—tend to bring together members of the same profession, with the resulting benefit to the professional schools of the University and to themselves.

Very sincerely yours,

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Inaugurating a different style of dramatic endeavor, Cue and Curtain has been experimenting this past year with production of one-act plays instead of the former season of only three long plays. This new method has given many more persons an opportunity to gain valuable dramatic experience and has served to present to the students of George Washington a program of a more varied nature. The first production of the year was presented in the Students' Club and the plays were: "In Heaven and Earth," starring Charles Corker and Eugene Lerner, and "She Was Only a Farmer's Daughter," starring Eleanor Sherbourne, Harold Minor, and Phil Young. The first play was also entered in the Washington One-Act Play Tournament, where Cue and Curtain entered the finals and emerged as one of the victors.

The club has been most fortunate in having a large membership who have been deeply interested in dramatics and have contributed in furthering the fine name of Cue and Curtain, which has become a tradition on the campus. It is hoped that next year the club may expand its operations even more with the possibility of finer facilities afforded by the University and the increasing interest in the drama shown by the students here at school.

"Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding."
—Proverbs 3:13.

Christian Science Organization at the George Washington University, founded in 1931 and composed of students and faculty members interested in Christian Science, is one of sixty-four such organizations in universities and colleges throughout the world.

The Organization, through the study of the Bible and the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, is enabling students to carry out more successfully the purpose of education—training for Citizenship, impartation of Culture, and development of Character.

Meetings of this Organization are held in Columbian House at 8:10 P.M. on the first and third Thursdays of the month. A reception was held on November 20, 1938, for students and faculty members interested in Christian Science. Mr. Erwin D. Canham, head of the Washington Bureau of the Christian Science Monitor, spoke regarding his experiences while a member of Christian Science Organization at Oxford University. Each year a lecture is given by a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Authorized books and periodicals on Christian Science, including the international daily newspaper, the Christian Science Monitor, are available in the University library.

The George Washington Congress was organized four years ago in an effort to articulate student opinion and encourage student discussion on political, social, and economic problems. In addition, the Congress provides the more mundane, but nevertheless essential opportunity of acquiring practical experience in politics and parliamentary procedure.

That the career of the Congress has been hectic, none will gainsay. From its inception as a theoretical three-party system of Left, Center, and Right, to the later, more ambiguous but pragmatic four-party system based on national misnomers, the Congress has experienced, and to its credit survived, prestige and derogation, integration and secession, self-esteem and humility, progress and poverty. On one point all are agreed, however: That throughout its existence the Congress has ever been one of the most aggressive and useful extracurricular activities at George Washington: a supplement to debate, a proving ground for parliamentary procedure, a crucible of thought, and a stage for action. In practice and in theory the Congress exemplifies those democratic processes in which we have placed our trust, our hopes, and our aspirations.

MEN'S DEBATE

Under the direction of Professor Roberts, men's debate coach, the varsity team entered into a highly successful season, leading off with a debate on December 12 against an Anglo-Irish team, in which the University was represented by Charles Corker and Leonard Wilson.

Meetings were scheduled with Georgetown, Maryland, Princeton, and Ohio Wesleyan Universities on the topic, "Resolved that the United States Should Form a League with Great Britain and France to Oppose the Further Spread of Fascism." The affirmative side of this question was maintained by a squad consisting of Sammy Farha, George Pope, Wallace Dingus, and Calvin Cory; the negative by Charles Corker, Ed Lowry, Michael McKool, and E. Cole Reasin.

On February 15, Marcel Desgalier and Irwin Nathanson upheld the University's honor in a debate with a team from Randolph-Macon Women's College on the advantages of equal rights for women.

Lack of funds prevented a debate squad from being sent to England to return the visit paid by the Anglo-Irish team earlier in the year.

WOMEN'S DEBATE

The season of the women's varsity debate team was climaxed by a literal flying trip through Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The opening debate of the season, against Trinity College, was held in Washington, but on February 27th, Betsy Yates and Dorothy Ames represented the University in a meeting at Pennsylvania State College. After meeting Pitt at Pittsburgh, they then proceeded by air to Columbus to engage Ohio Wesleyan University. The topic discussed was the formation of Anglo-American alliances.

FROSH DEBATE

Freshman Debate Coach DeWitt Bennett scheduled debates for the frosh squad on the subject of Anglo-American relations with American University (twice), Catholic University, and the Marjorie Webster School, all at Washington.

MAX FARRINGTON

In his tenth year with the University Athletic Department, Max Farrington became Director of the Department on February 1, 1939. Farrington was born in Aurora, Missouri, and is a graduate of Westminster College at Fulton, Missouri. At Westminster, he was outstanding in football and baseball. After coming to the University in 1929, as assistant to Athletic Director Pixlee and Director of Intramurals, he supplemented his undergraduate degree with an M.A. in Education from the University. In February, 1938, Max Farrington was appointed Acting Director of Athletics and Executive Officer of the Department of Physical Education for Men.

THE COACHES

THE MANAGERIAL SYSTEM

The managerial system for intercollegiate sports has been used at George Washington with much success. Founded on the merit system, it allows no opportunity for the undeserving to receive managerial positions without working for them. Selections are made by the coach in charge, the Senior manager, and the assistant director of athletics.

The Senior manager is the head of the system, directing all managers. He rules the managers of all sports and makes recommendations each year for promotions.

Under him are the Junior managers of basketball, football, baseball, and minor sports. Next in line are the Sophomore managers, who work in one or more sports and compete for the jobs of managers of Freshman football, basketball, minor sports, and assistant varsity managers. A Freshman can serve only in the capacity of assistant to a Sophomore or Junior manager.

Upon the ability of the manager depends the comfort and disposition of the varsity squads on their out-of-town trips, and he must also keep the equipment in shape, which is a job in itself.

This year, Arthur Kleinman was Senior Manager of Athletics and Allen Rothenberg was Senior Manager of Football, Frank Mann for Basketball, and Gardner Franklin for Baseball.

CAPTAIN JOHNNY REBHOLZ
Tackle

A regular since the first game of his Sophomore year, Johnny Rebholtz was entrusted with the leadership of the Colonial forces this season, and performed his duties as captain in the same steady, dependable manner which characterized his line play for three seasons. RESUME OF THE SEASON

George Washington, 7; Furman, 0

Starting the 1938 football campaign with inexperienced players in several key positions, the Colonials resorted chiefly to straight power plays in the season's opening game to turn back Furman College's Purple Hurricane by a 7-0 score. One brief opening up of the attack found Billy Richardson's passes hitting their target for a touchdown march. Coach Reinhart's strategy of shifting Bob Nowaskey from the backfield to end in an effort to strengthen the Buff flanks began to show gratifying results.

George Washington, 26; Butler, 0

A phenomenal performance by Vic Sampson, swivel-hipped halfback, sparked a fiery Colonial eleven to a 26-0 triumph over the Butler Bulldogs in the second game of the season. Running behind alert and viciously charging blockers, Sampson reeled off numerous gains of twenty to sixty yards in one of the most brilliant exhibitions of the season. The George Washington line showed its defensive as well as offensive skill by holding the Bulldogs in check throughout the contest.

George Washington, 13; Colorado, 0

Improving on even its high-spirited play of the previous week, the Buff and Blue overpowered Colorado University, 1937 Rocky Mountain Conference champions, by a 13-0 margin at Boulder for its third consecutive victory. With Vic Sampson and John Tonkavich leading the attack, and such stalwarts as Sonny Jones, Izzy Weinberg, and Bob Nowaskey bulwarking a powerfully knit line, the Colonials rolled up 219 yards with their running attack to 78 for their hosts. Only twice did the Buffaloes pass the George Washington 35-yard line, and neither time did they penetrate deeper than the 25.

George Washington, 27; Davis Elkins, 0

The Colonials found in Davis Elkins a stiffer opposition than was expected but experienced little difficulty in pushing across four touchdowns and three extra points while keeping their goal line still uncrossed. Coach Reinhart substituted freely to give his sophomore charges a chance to show under fire and to keep his squad in shape for the powerful opponents to be confronted throughout the remainder of the schedule.

George Washington, 0; Mississippi, 25

For one bitterly fought half the Colonial warriors rose to the heights to outcharge, outmaneuver, and outgame the powerful Mississippi Maroon, but the Rebels from Ole

Miss came back in the second half to crush the locals under a 25-0 score. The Colonials played their hearts out in a brilliant effort to overcome the highly favored visitors in the first half, and had nothing left for the second. Mississippi's superior reserve strength turned the tide, and once Parker Hall and mates began to roll, they were unstoppable. The play of George Washington's Nowaskey, Jones, and Sampson was highly praised by opposing players and coaches alike.

George Washington, 0; Clemson, 27

Scoring three of their four touchdowns on runs of over 60 yards, one coming on the first scrimmage play after the opening kick-off, the Clemson Tigers handed the Buff a 27-0 defeat at Greenville, South Carolina, its second loss of the season. The Colonials, with Sampson and Ken Batson carrying the ball, managed to chalk up three more first downs than the Tigers but were unable to match the lengthy sprints of Banks McFadden and "Shad" Bryant, Clemson speed demons.

George Washington, 9; Kansas, 7

Following two setbacks in a row, the Colonials came back to a close 9-7 decision over the University of Kansas Jayhawkers in an exciting battle. The Buffs took the role of opportunists, and played it well, an impregnable goal line stand by George Washington's brilliantly performing line-men in the first quarter stopped a Kansas drive on the 4-yard line, and with the score tied in the final period, a blocked punt by Tony Barauskas rolled into the end zone to give the Colonials their margin of victory.

George Washington, 0; Bucknell, 16

The Colonials made their least impressive showing of the season in losing to Bucknell by a 16-0 score. The Bisons scored early and George Washington never seriously threatened the enemy goal. A rain-soaked field helped bring about the Buff downfall, and fumbles were numerous, leading to a safety for Bucknell and also to the final touchdown. The only solace for the Colonials was the sterling play of Wilbur Saeger at tackle, who finally reached the form Coach Reinhart had hoped to see.

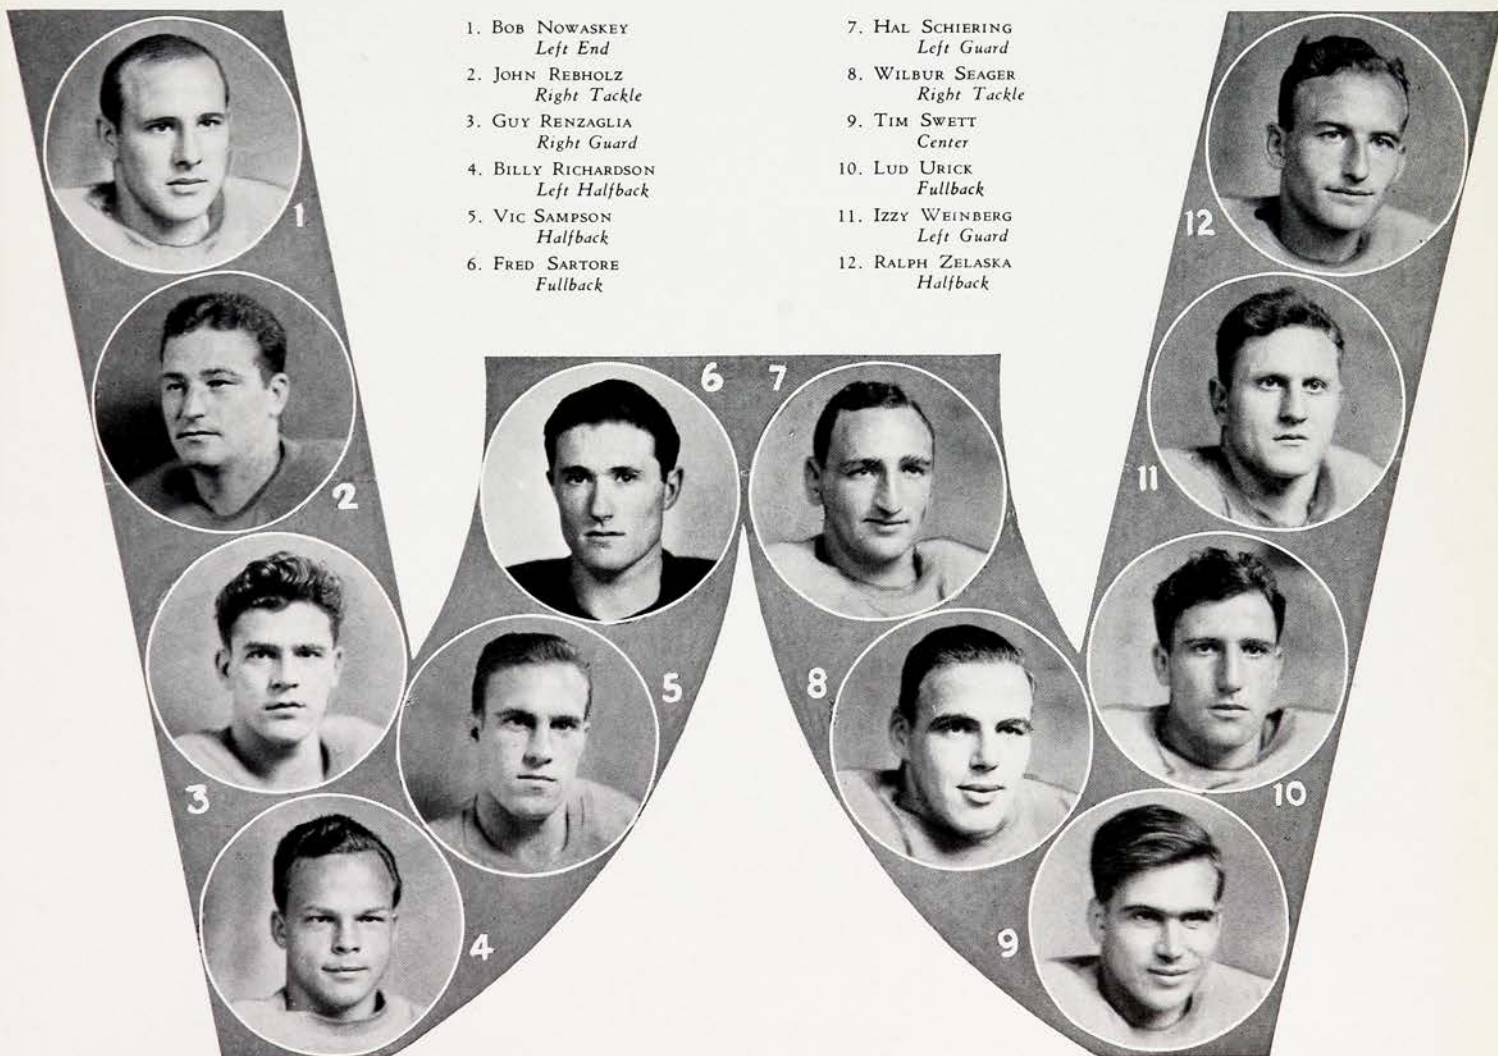

George Washington, 6; West Virginia, 7

The final, Homecoming game with West Virginia proved one of the most exciting and hardest fought of the season, in spite of rain, sleet, and snow. The rivalry which has grown rapidly the last few years reached new heights as both teams played good, hard football all the way. West Virginia scored in the last thirty seconds of the first half, and George Washington spent most of the second half in Mountaineer territory in a desperate effort to overcome the disadvantage. The goal line finally was crossed on a spectacular catch by end Sam Babich of a pass from Billy Richardson, but the kick for extra point failed and another Buff drive was halted by the final gun.

Seven seniors played their last game for the Colonials, and will be sorely missed next fall. Prospects of a back-field without elusive Vic Sampson and hard-blocking Frank Merka and a line without Captain Johnny Rebholtz at tackle, Guy Renzaglia, Izzy Weinberg, and Hal Schiering at the guard posts, and pass catching Bob Faris at end, probably will cause Coach Reinhart many headaches before next September.

Another unanimous selection for All-District honors at guard. For three years Guy Renzaglia has been a mainstay in the Colonial forward wall, this season finding him one of the strongest points in a powerful Buff line. Smart opposing signal callers seldom aimed their attack over Guy's position, for to do so was to cast doubt on their wisdom.

BOB NOWASKEY
End

Given honorable mention on the Associated Press, All-American, and All-Eastern teams, among others, Bob Nowaskey's brilliant play at end earned national recognition. Voted the most valuable member of the squad, for which he received the Omicron Delta Kappa annual award. Washington sports writers acclaimed him the best all-around performer in the District team.

B A S K E T B A L L

Climaxing the season with a thrill-packed triumph over Georgetown University for the mythical District of Columbia championship, Coach Bill Reinhart's 1938-'39 basketballers added another successful campaign to the long list of Colonial achievements on the court. Playing a 21-game schedule, which included some of the outstanding teams of the East, South, and Middle West, the Colonials emerged with 13 victories against 8 defeats, scoring 950 points to 882 for their opponents. Although the number of games lost was larger than for the two previous years, the schedule was one of the most difficult undertaken by any team in the East. Over half the games were played on enemy courts, ranging from Chicago in the West to New York in the East and Virginia in the South.

Coach Reinhart built his squad around Forwards Bob Faris, high scorer for the District, and George Garber, Centers Jack Butterworth and Bruce Borum, and Guards Sid Silkowitz and Arnold Auerbach, all veterans of the 1937-'38 quintet, with Dave Osborne, Eddie Amendola, Lou Veltri, and Joe Comer. Osborne and Borden are Seniors, whose graduation will leave many positions to fill next year.

In his last season for the Buff and Blue, Faris led the team in scoring for the second straight year and also took high scoring honors for the District of Columbia.

Playing 20 of the 21 games, Faris amassed 242 points for an average of 12.1 per game. George Garber placed second in team scoring with a total of 191, Sid Silkowitz was third with 124, and Arnold Auerbach followed closely in fourth place with 120. Jack Butterworth, star Buff center, missed several games the first part of the season because of an injury and again the last part of the season because of graduation in February, but still managed to drop in 74 points while in the lineup.

The highlight of the season was the game with Georgetown in the final contest of the year for both teams. With the two quintets boasting almost identical records and the "city title" at stake, renewal of athletic relations between the two local universities developed into a whirlwind battle. Georgetown held the upper hand throughout the first half, but at the start of the second period the Buff combination of Garis, Garber, Borum, Silkowitz, and Auerback began to click with smooth and deadly precision. After bombarding the Hoya basket with a series of spectacular shots to tie the score at 23-all, the Colonial cage artists stepped up their tempo to an amazing pitch in the closing minutes of the game to win by a final score of 36-26.

Colonial victims during the year included Clemson, Southern Conference champions; Maryland, runner-up to Clemson; Georgetown, co-champions of the Eastern Intercollegiate League, and Toledo, one of the stronger teams in the North Central area. All of the games lost were to teams which finished the campaign with remarkable records, most of them losing not more than two or three games the entire season against top-ranking opposition.

MEN'S RIFLE TEAM

Suffering from the loss of four star members of the 1938 National Intercollegiate Championship squad, the Colonial rifle team won only two of the seven matches during the 1939 season. Two triumphs over Georgetown University and two losses to the University of Maryland gave the Buff riflers a .500 rating in local competition. An undefeated Naval Academy team accounted for two of the setbacks, while the other was inflicted by the cadets of the United States Military Academy and Virginia Military Institute in a triangular match.

Performances improved as the season advanced, and with the entire team returning next year, Coach Frank Parsons probably will have another outstanding squad when the new season gets under way.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

An unusually small squad of Freshmen footballers went through an unsuccessful season without winning a game, except for one in which aid was received from varsity substitutes. In the four other contests the best showing the frosh could make was a scoreless tie.

The cubs opened the season with a loss to strong Mercersburg Prep by a 7-0 score. A journey to Carney's Point, N. J., resulted in a 0-0 tie with the Carney's Point Y. M. C. A. in spite of a much superior George Washington eleven in all departments except scoring. The two final games, both played on rain-soaked fields, ended in decisive drubbings for the Freshmen, as Dickinson Seminary's Junior College outfit romped to a 31-0 victory, and the Maryland frosh followed with a 25-0 triumph at College Park. A combination of varsity substitutes and Freshmen won over the Quantico Marines by 19-0.

In spite of the poor team record, Coach Tim Moynihan expects five or six members of the team to make the varsity squad next year. Such players as Fedora and Carta in the backfield and Bittings and August on the line should develop into valuable varsity performers.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

A promising Freshman basketball squad, under the direction of Coach Arthur Zahn, followed closely the pace set by their "big brothers" on the varsity to win eight games, while losing four. Of the four games lost, only one was by a margin larger than four points, the fast Federal Bureau of Investigation quintet proving too much for the yearlings.

The frosh victims included most of the neighboring high schools and prep schools, all by decisive margins.

Several members of the Freshman squad will be counted upon next year to fill the places made vacant in the varsity ranks by the loss of six Seniors. The most promising members of the squad included Bobby Gilham and Charlie Jones, forwards; Paul Brieff and Roy McNeill, at guards; while Mat Zunic, another sharpshooting forward, and Pat Deming, center, are expected to be in the fold to give varsity performers a fight for their positions.

VINNIE DE ANGELIS
Assistant Coach

For the first time in the history of the University, baseball has been added to the realm of major sports. Although there will not be a varsity squad this season, there will be a Freshman team. This team will be composed of first year men only and they will play a twenty-five-game schedule which will include games with Georgetown and Maryland Universities.

Coach Ed Morris will remain as head coach and attend the Freshman team, and Vinnie De Angelis will assist.

The Freshmen graduating from this 1939 squad will make the future varsity team, and it is with this group that Coach Morris points to the varsity schedule of 1940. This schedule includes games with Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Boston College, Vermont, Penn State, Lafayette, Pitt, Michigan, Ohio State, Washington and Lee, Richmond, Wake-Forest, Georgetown, and Maryland.

INTRAMURALS

One of the outstanding successes of the Student Government was achieved by Vinnie DeAngelis in his capacity as Intramural Director. He conceived and directed a well-rounded and successful intramural program, open to all and touching many varied branches of the sports field.

Intramurals are designed to afford the opportunity of participation to the student who is unable to devote the time required by varsity competition, and to improve interscholastic relations. Intramural teams have competed against four nearby schools, and plan to engage three more.

In the swimming pentathlon, Paul Wilson placed first, with Joe LaSalle second. The swimming team distinguished itself by taking all the first and second places in a meet with Catholic University.

Englehart led the handball team to a win over Georgetown, taking two out of three matches.

The badminton team defeated Maryland and Georgetown once each, and lost once to Maryland.

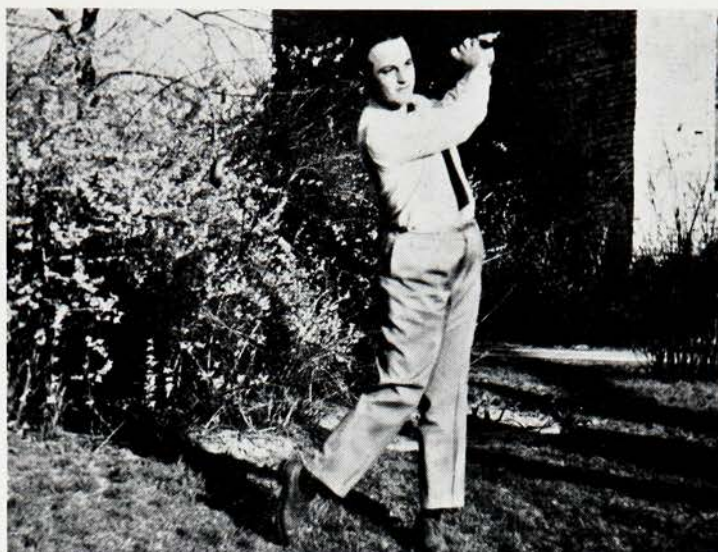

The volley ball team tied for first place in its intercollegiate tournament.

Bill and Charlie Hurd swept the field in golf, placing one-two. The golf team has scheduled a round robin which will take it into the links against Baltimore, Loyola, Johns Hopkins and Maryland.

The basketball league was taken by the Panthers, Junior team. The intramural All-Stars defeated the interfraternity All-Stars decisively in a preliminary to the Georgetown-George Washington varsity tilt.

In ping pong, the University team beat both Maryland and Georgetown Universities.

Golf team will begin a series of round-robins with nearby colleges

RIFLE

Rifle was under the managership of Doris Ludwig this year and was coached by Helen Hanford. The varsity was chosen at the end of the season; captained by Marie McNeese, it included Jean Yocum, Laura Ellis, Virginia Birkby, Mabel Vierling, Helen Royall, Claire Hall, Hazel Smallwood, Doris Ludwig, Marie McNeese, and Marion Swan. The outstanding matches of the year were the shoulder-to-shoulder matches fired in Philadelphia against Drexel, and in College Park against Maryland, and the Alumna match fired on the home range. The matches held during the year included the interclass match, won by the Junior-Senior team with a score of 756. Marion Swan received a medal as winner of the individual match.

DANCE

Dance increased its popularity this year under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burtner and Barbara Feiker, president of Orchesis. They participated in the All-College recital sponsored by the Washington Dance Association on March 15. A new program of integration between the dance group and the art group and the Home Economics Department made possible the new and colorful costumes worn by the dancers in their recital. On March 30 they gave their own program at Woodrow Wilson Auditorium. A junior group, under the direction of Orchesis, was started this year, and those eligible for membership in Orchesis were chosen from this group at the end of the season. The calendar of events included a symposium, April 10, with other dance groups in the city, and a program which was presented as part of the May Day festival.

ARCHERY

Archery continued a third year under Hazel Smallwood as manager and Miss Elizabeth Burtner as coach. Exhibitions were given in the gym during the year and novelty shoots were held in class. Six archers participated in the Feature Night presentation, and four archers competed in the play day at Goucher. A varsity archery team was chosen, made up of four members. The climax of the season was the annual open tournament, in which Hazel Smallwood lost the trophy to Olympia Sakellaris.

HOCKEY

Manager Jean Yocum was assisted by Ellen Zirpel, Ann Dunbar, and Eleanor Brown. At midseason the sectional teams were selected and competition for positions was keen. The teams were well guided by Miss Turnbull and the gym majors. The varsity was selected at the Fall W. A. A. banquet and among its outstanding members were Jane Castell, Hortense Morin, and Catherine Moore. The highlight of the season was the game played against the Washington Field Hockey Association.

SOCCER

Soccer was a tremendous success this fall under Miss Lawrence, coach, and Mary Jane Livingston, manager. Those chosen as class managers were Ethel Hoffman, Mabel Johnson, Marjorie Albin. Sectional class team games were held between the Washington Blues, Presidential Blues, and Colonial Blues, and the Presidential Buffs, and Colonial Buffs. The final winners were the Colonial Buffs by a large margin. A varsity and reserve team was picked, and an odd-even team, combining both, was announced at the fall banquet.

BADMINTON

Badminton, the all-round indoor sport, was under the guidance of Alice Miller and Miss Turnbull. A women's singles tournament was played and Jane Castell and Marion Pauls were winner and runner-up. A women's doubles tournament was played off at class time and a mixed doubles tournament was played in the gym at night. This sport gave unlimited opportunity for cooperation in sports between the men and the women.

TENNIS

The silver cup which is awarded annually by the W. A. A. was presented to Virginia Moore, winner this year and an outstanding player in past years. The tournament was held during October and November, and about thirty girls participated. Both Miss Turnbull and Miss Burtner coached, and Madelaine Matchett was manager, assisted by Margo Seller, Virginia Stevens, and Virginia Moore.

BASKETBALL

Basketball was under Ellen Zirpel, manager, and several assistants, the coaching staff being made up of Miss Lawrence and Miss Turnbull. Four class teams were chosen and, after hard practice during the season, played each other in the gym on alternating nights. In the triangular meet with Goucher and Hood, held in Baltimore in February, the G. W. team won top honors. An odd-even game and a game between the honorary varsity and the alumnae were highlights of the basketball season.

FENCING

Fencing was admitted to the W. A. A. board with the same standing as a regular sport, under Hortense Morin, president. Fencing exhibitions were given at the Y. W. C. A. and many off-campus groups challenged the best of our fencers. They fought the Washington Fencers Club and came out victorious. Other activities included a spot of balloon fencing at the Feature Night held in the gym and a demonstration on May Day.

RIDING

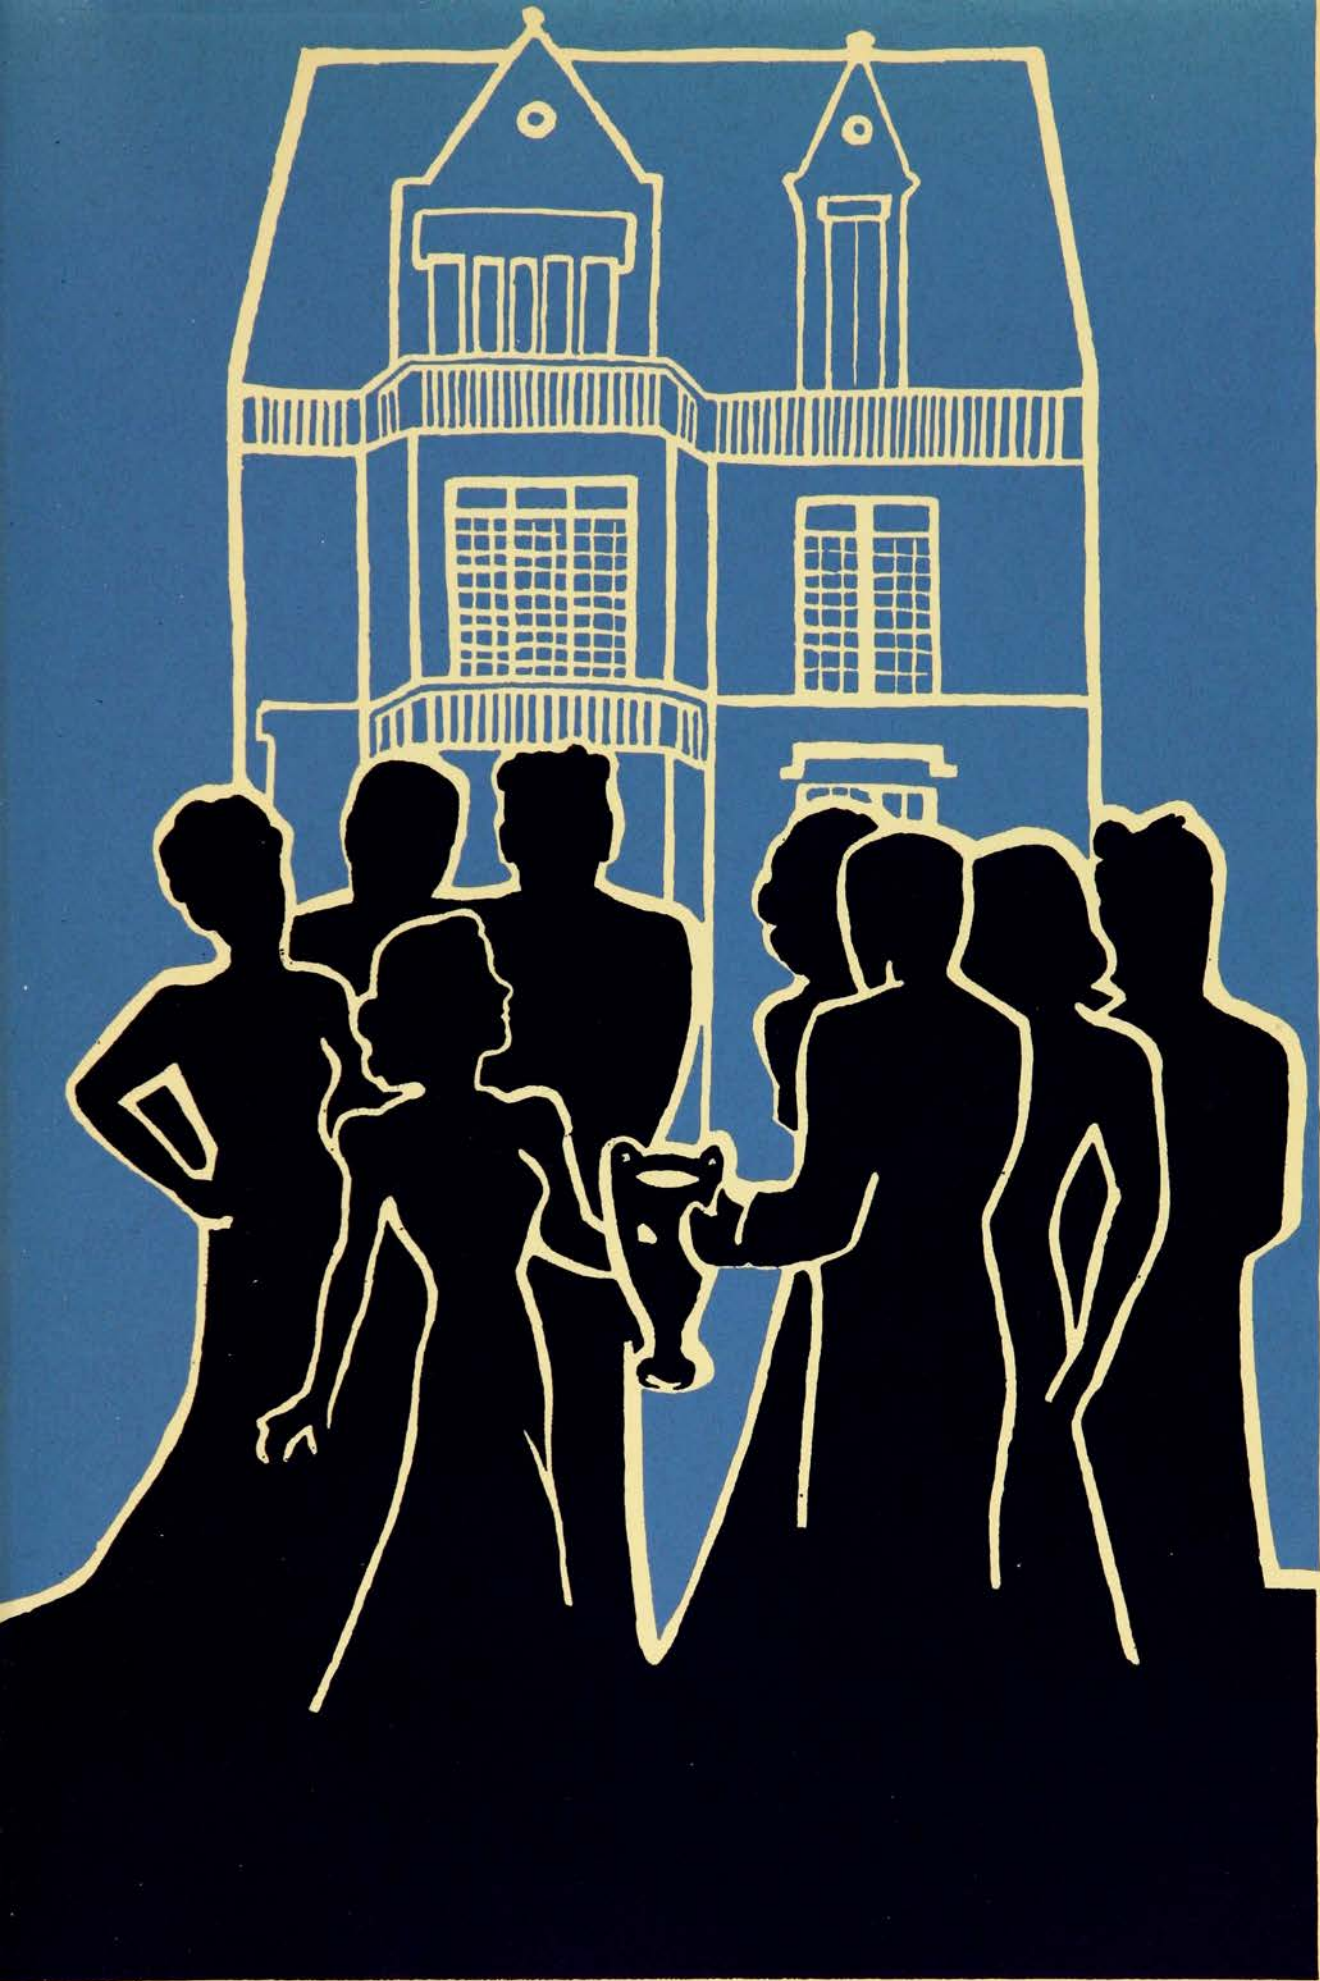

Norma Hatfield was manager of riding for this season. A very elaborate and well-planned riding show was held at the Rock Creek Riding Ring. Lorraine Williams carried off top honors in most classes, winning a number of ribbons. Midnight rides were held by the club and members of the class participated. This year the group was well grounded in the fundamentals of park style riding, the type which is especially suited to the kind of riding enjoyed in Washington.

CANOEING

Canoeing was the baby sport this fall. Ruth Darby was elected manager and Miss Burtner was coach. The classes were held at the Tidal Basin and a number of experts turned out. The season culminated in a show where formations, technique, and different styles of crew paddling were displayed. Many people turned out for it, and it is expected to be a front rank sport next year.

JOHN BOLES

This year, THE CHERRY TREE sponsored a dance at which the beauty contestants were chosen, in person, by John Boles, stage and screen star. The four most beautiful girls at George Washington were chosen from the following contestants: Betty Corkhill, Peggy Coulbourne, Gean Harris, Doris Gene Isbel, Marian Kinsel, Anna Kay Molster, Helen Saari, Claire Sessford, Irma Silman, June Booth Stan, Jean Yocum.

CARRYINGS ON ABOUT CAMPUS

THE THEATRE

REGISTRATION: Chaos in the Cosmos ably revived each season by Patres Universitatis, with a supporting cast of attendant photographing and shekel-extracting imps. Harrowing and expensive, but put it on your "Must" list for a season-opener.

RUSH WEEK: An aptly named panoramic spectacle of fraternity life at its hectic height. Imagine a stage version of "Gone With the Wind" in one act and you'll have an idea. When Greek meets Greek, then comes the tussle.

Freshmen will enjoy it. Not recommended for Greek initiates with an affinity for sleep.

THE INTERFRATERNITY PROM: Swing version of "The Great Waltz." Larry Clinton's band heads a sparkling cast including your best girl, corsages at $3.00 a throw, top hat, white tie, and tails. Shake well and follow with a shot of tomato juice in the morning.

VARSITY HOUSE: A tense psychological drama originally entitled, "The Axe Falls." All about a group of gladiators who live in fear of not making the grade—whether it be a "C" in Home Economics or a touchdown against the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

STUDENT CONGRESS: Hilarious farce about one hundred ego-maniacs confined in a room with a National Issue to play with. A successful attempt to illustrate the lengths to which people will go to display their misinformation in public. Incidental music by one hundred wind instruments.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL: Stark politics in a setting of sweetness and light. Especially delightful is the full-chorus rendition of "Button, Button, Who's Got the Forum Directorship." A little raw in spots, but we were young once, too.

CUE AND CURTAIN: No matter how many times you see it you'll be amazed at the spectacle of this Phoenix arising from its own ashes. You'll enjoy its melodrama if you're able to tell which are the dramatic and which the melodramatic scenes.

The new version of this old reliable is unlike its predecessors in that it makes expenses.

DINING AND DANCING

BUFF 'N' BLUE ROOM: Cheap entertainment—if you get what we mean. Dining and dancing with incidental floor show numbers by your next-table neighbor.

We recommend the double-strength chocolate malteds, if you can handle your drinks and know when to stop. Keep an eye on your hat.

Dress is optional. About half wear skirts and half pants.

FRESHMAN MIXER: Sophomores, Juniors, or Seniors, don't miss this. All your classmates will be there. Just the place to avoid contact with the incoming Frosh.

Strictly icky. Everybody jitters out of this world to the barrel-housing of swing cats in the groove. No corn on this menu.

If you just want to dance, stay home and play the radio.

MISCELLANY

CLASSES: Occasional moments of excitement when some dozer falls to the floor, but not recommended for the average student. Once over lightly, if at all.

STRONG HALL: Glorifying the American Girl, George Washington succeeds where Zeigfeld and Carroll failed.

Picture your Dream Girl. Then call the Hall switchboard and give the operator your specifications. She'll have someone answering the description on the line in five minutes.

This is the busiest corner in town on prom nights. Nice view from the new Hall of Government's Third Floor.

THE HATCHET: Heartily recommended as a time-killer. Guaranteed to kill every week-end for all staff members. Boasts the services of such competent columnists as FFB ("I was warned to keep my mouth shut") and CEW ("to hell with the British Empire").

We often wonder how the third of the calumniating columnists, RWL ("to hell with everything") had the fortitude to give his column its name; "Confidentially—" It seems there should be something to follow. Victor Moore had a word for it—two of them, in fact.

Scheduled too late to be reviewed in this issue

FINAL EXAMS: A sordid dramatic commentary on the ignorance of youth. Rather melodramatic, but brings home sharply the old adage that "he who dances must pay the fiddler." Most poignant scene: Seven thousand students walking into examination rooms with firm steps and heads held high to emerge two hours later broken and haggard, with furtive steps and twitching hands.

... And that's not all!

WHAT THE CRITICS THINK OF THIS ISSUE OF THE CHERRY TREE

(These comments were entirely unsolicited and positively are not remunerated.—The Editors.)

"Without a doubt this number of THE CHERRY TREE is far superior to anything in this line I have seen from any college or university in this or any other country."—VIRGINIA TEHAS, Editor.

"Interesting, informative, a book you will want to refer to again and again . . . In a word the 1939 edition of THE CHERRY TREE can only be described as thrilling."—ESTHER YANOVSKY, Editor.

"Page after page of candid camera shots, really satiric satire, really humorous humor, make this, the 1939 CHERRY TREE positively the greatest and most glamorous aggregation of facts, photos, fulminations, and information ever assembled between the two covers of any volume known to the civilized world, not excluding the Encyclopedia Britannica nor Elinor Glynn's 'Three Weeks'."—DEE SHEPHERD, Business Manager.

"Not bad."—GUS JOHNSON, Staff.

THE BARK OF THE CAMPUS

Apropos of Nothing

A DEFINITE indication of the progress of Culture in the American College is to be noted in the remarkable similarity in evidence between the five jamborees instigated by the modern college jitter session and the type of tom-tom terpsichore indigenous to the American Indian of ten decades ago in his hey-heyday.

However, we suppose it's all right, if the partners really love each other. The only law that is broken, apparently, is that of gravity.

Fable

VIC TURROU was boasting to a sorority sister that he had a fraternity brother who never forgot anything.

The Devil was listening nearby, and he bet Vic he was wrong.

So the Devil went to the brother and said, "Do you like chorus girls?"

"Yes," replied Frank.

The Devil departed.

Several months elapsed and the Devil returned and asked, "How?"

"Teased," replied Frank.

(Editor's note—Frankly, we don't get it. Eleven to two you don't either.)

Who?

WHAT two Kappa Purity Leaguers were seen at the Ninth Street Leg Art Gallery—field work, no doubt, preparatory to entering the Art School next year, or planning a raid, perhaps, in the tradition of Pussyfoot Johnson, with a Carrie A. Nation angle?

News

WHEN free food fails to produce a passel of Pi Phis on the date set for an exchange dinner—that's news!

The fact that the fraternity involved in the deal is noted (ask any of 'em) for their way with the sorors makes a bad situation no better.

Definition

STUDENT Council—a parasite of the genus *S*termite infesting American colleges and universities.

(Editor's note.—Tut! Tut!)

Quicker Than the Eye

A NEW version of the old Army game was evolved this year by Bob Harmon. The pea (now you see it, now you don't) was replaced by his fraternity pin. The nut shells (any illusion to any living person is entirely unintentional—Ed.) were exemplified by Virginia Aylesbury and one Beall Sale (Wm. and Mary).

It seems that Virginia is leading by a country mile at present. At any rate, she has one of Bob's pins.

Likely Story

VIRGINIA BIRKBY solved something or other to her own (if no one else's) satisfaction when she released for publication quote Hat Roger's pin? Oh, I lost it period unquote.

(Editor's note—Hmmm!)

Hardy Perennial

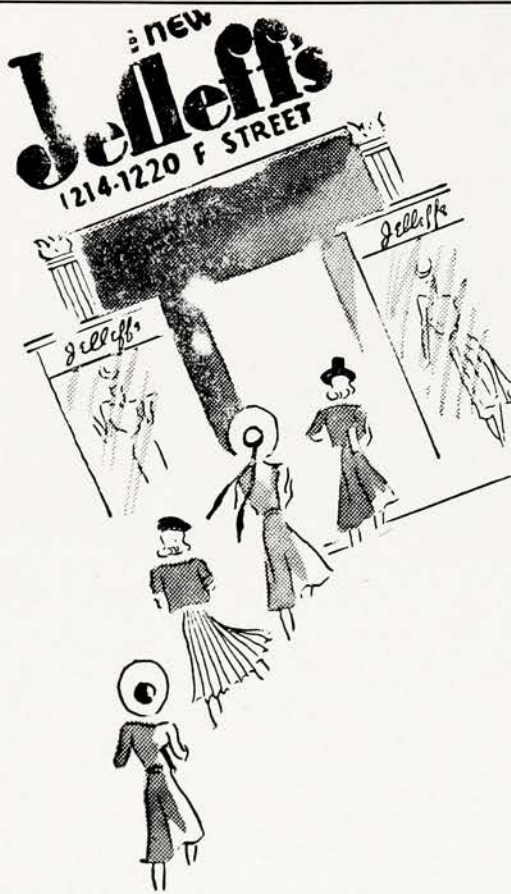

"YES," said the prof to his class one balmy spring afternoon, "it isn't the heat, it's the stupidity."

(Editor's note—Old wines, old songs, old friends—these are the things that make life worth living. Old jokes, too, have their place. This is it.)

O Tempora!

IT was Intermission at the Interfraternity Prom, so everyone came inside to dance.

DOORWAY TO YOUTH IN QUEST OF FASHION WITH VALUE!!

REFLECTIONS ON FINAL EXAMINATIONS

If it's knowledge one seeks,
Twice a year pallid cheeks
Follow final examinations;
Though used by the Greeks,
The custom still reeks
Of odoriferous contamination.

Through the small hours we cram
For the blasted exam,
And smoke like a house set afire;
'Til at last, like a ham,
We don't give a damn,
And decide it's time to retire.

But when night with dawn merges,
Comes a nightmare that surges
With thoughts that are horribly gruesome;
Such as grim Nazi purges,
Biological urges,
And the Frankenstein-Dracula twosome.

As the great day falls due,
We rightfully rue
The evils of procrastination;
As we write in a stew
In those booklets of blue,
We ponder our dark destination.

Now the questions we see,
We mutter, "G. D."
And our open jaws hang unsuspended;
Quite definitely
The professor could be
From canines directly descended.

Somehow we try
To run our pens dry
With words something short of divine;
How the shovels do fly!
Piles ain't been so high
Since the blizzards of old 'ninety-nine.

Well, it's over, set bait,
And fish for a date
With some Representative's daughter;
Let's start tempting fate
With seven or eight
Scotch and sodas minus the water.

Aftermath

Bach's music beats time
On our heads like a chime,
Please pass the juice of tomato;
At just such a time
It's lawful to rhyme
A vegetable with a cantata.

FRANK E. GIBSON, JR.

I'M NOT A SKEPTIC, BUT—

Come dear, and see this animal I found upon your bed,
I've beat it and I've banged it 'til I'm pretty sure it's dead.
I saw the darn thing crouching as I came into the room,
But before it had a chance to jump, I socked it with a broom.
Go ahead dear, it won't hurt you. No, I don't know what it is,
But I think—Say, what's the matter? It's a brand new what?—Gee Whiz!
Now, you know I never argue, pet, with anything you say,
Why, even when I know you're wrong, I still say it's okay.
But tell me that's a saddle or a salad bowl or jug
Or tell me it's a divot that you dug out of the rug
Or tell me it's a bag of bones you pilfered from the cat,
But don't test my credulity by calling that a hat.

"Of course, Harry is nice, but Bud's pin had pearls on it and so has mine."

Though not a dude, I must admit that I have worn my part
Of the most bizarre creations of the haberdasher's art.
I wear the latest fashions, but I'd never take the chance
On walking G street in a pair of Georgetown's knee-high pants.
Esquire may say they're de riguer; I really cannot say,
But I prefer to wear my clothes the good old-fashioned way,
And even though I'm out of style I'll never tempt the breeze
With jackets half way down my thighs and pants up to my knees.

ROY COLLINS.

O Mores!

BASKETBALL has its points, we agree, but the afternoon of a football game is the only time a Joe can walk down the street with a blonde on one arm and a blanket on the other without encountering raised eyebrows.

Perfection

FRATERNITY fratres no doubt believe perfection has been attained and is exemplified, of course, by fraternity fratres.

This is offered as a possible explanation of the apparent lack of reaction to Jean Putnam's current power line. (Editor's note—Some pun, eh kid?) The boys don't seem to respond to Jean's flattery.

ing,

Or do you want to find out if the Yankees took a beating?

Do you want to read about the wars in far-off places,

Or have you, over Ma's protests, been betting on the races?

You say you merely want to see what kind of weather's brewing

But I'll bet you're like me. You want to see what Popeye's doing.

I am discriminating as regards the female sex,
I want a shy retiring girl, but who sometimes nex.
I'd like a girl who dresses well; who's easy on the eye,

And who upon occasion can whip up a decent pie.
I'd like a girl who's dignified, but one who's full of fun

And—this is most important—one whose pop has lots of mon.

I want a jane whose eyes contain a little bit of heaven,

I guess that's why I'm single at the age of eighty-seven.

ART (?) FOR ART'S SAKE

A GREAT and burning question of taste (or rather technique) has swept the male population of our campus during the past semester. This question is how to develop the Art of Kissing.

Every angle of the subject was thrashed out at a recent public meeting of the Student Council. (There were four Council members present, and the general public that turned out for it consisted of a Hatchet reporter, a Hatchet photographer, and Michael "McWarm").

The meeting was opened by President "Cap and Gown," suave and ohgirlssomasculine. He announced that, in his opinion, the secret of the "kiss divine" was merely a matter of highly developed oscular muscles, and that the thrill of a kiss is directly proportional to their proficiency. Most of those present nodded in agreement.

His next statement, however, threw the opposition into a furore.

"The way to attain this all-important muscular coordination is by eating spaghetti. This fact is not stated without proper research. Seven of G. W.'s most prodigious lovers have admitted to me that they use this method, namely, 'Flaming' Buzz, 'Heil' Kniffin, 'Demosthenes' Faurot, 'Forward' Butterworth, 'Tom' Collins, 'New Jersey's Pride and Joy' Beronio, and 'Fetch-er' McCluney." Before being seated, President C. and G. gracefully acquiesced to a request that he pose for a picture. (Together with a detailed report of the meeting it will be spread across the front page of the next week's Hatchet in order that the two or three dozen interested students might read all about it. The other 6,982 can read some other newspaper, if they think it silly).

Hardly had the photographer's flash bulb died when recognition was demanded and given to fiery leftist-leader "Addie" Pughe, who launched a terrific castigation. "The statement of our President is typical bourgeois escapism," declared Pughe. "Spaghetti, indeed! It is obvious to Marxists, who are invariably clear-thinkers, that there is no realism in such an approach. The true way to develop the muscles of the mouth for kissing purposes is to kiss! In order to develop the muscles of the legs for tennis playing, you play more tennis; in order to develop the hands for boxing, you box more; is there any reason to think that this logic does not apply with equal force to the question in hand? (Reflecting the Hatchet's unfailing sense for the dramatic and colorful, its photographer at this point again went into action.)

"The time has come," continued oracular Pughe, "to serve a warning. If the present conservative leadership of the Council doesn't start offering more practical solutions to the vital problems confronting our student body, then in the next elections instead of polling a mere 20% of the votes, I prophesy that the leftists will increase their vote to 25%." This statement was applauded wildly by "Fibate" Bel-lows, the other leftist on the Council.

The next contribution was made by Forum Di-rector "?" (at last something had been found to talk about that was as important as his impeachment), who rose to urge the adoption of a compromise view-point. Although Mr. Pughe's idea appealed to him tremendously, he realized nevertheless that it was not possible to have a girl on hand every time you wanted to do some practicing. Therefore there were times when it would be necessary to practice vicariously, and for these occasions C. & G.'s spa-ghetti suggestion seemed splendid. (For those who have long since ceased even to glance at the Hatchet, this is to let them know that its photographer got another picture at this point.)

At this late hour the President discovered sud-denly that there was not a quorum present. He announced: "This discussion has been so stimulating and vital, you will all be surprised when I tell you that I have just noticed we do not have a quorum. In view of this fact, we cannot take a vote and the meeting therefore stands adjourned."

The Hatchet reporter rushed out of the building with his scoop. On the steps he bumped into "La-dies' Man" Frye, and inquired why Dave hadn't taken advantage of the invitation for the public to attend the meeting. Dave replied that the problem never bothers him. He simply intimates to the girls he meets that he is going to inherit a half-million dollars when he reaches 25, and after that, the obli-gation of pleasing is on the girl.

Proceeding across the campus the reporter next spotted tall, handsome and ohgirlssophysical Alex, and requested a Latin's view of the subject. Alex explained that "American college boys are not artful at kissing merely because their technique is too ab-rupt and unimaginative. It should be discovered that a 'butterfly kiss' is more enthralling than a kiss on the lips.

"Even more effective, however," said Alex, "is a kiss on the neck. It gives the recipient an especial thrill, for it has all the appearance of being daring, but it is really not. You have not committed your-self too much, but at the same time you have made a definite impression."

With this exotic youth's words jotted down, the interviewer decided he now had enough male judg-ments, and to balance the picture sought sorority opinion. Telephoning sorority clubrooms, he care-fully explained time and again what had happened at the Council meeting, and asked for the feminine reaction. But not a coed could be found who was willing to issue a statement. Perhaps the men are known to have such strong opinions on the subject that the women don't dare risk antagonizing them. Or perhaps our girls are so innocent they simply haven't any ideas on the Art of Kissing. Perhaps.

GREEN PAST YEARS

Time: June, 1989.

Place: The pearly gates.

CURTAIN

The curtain rises on the pearly gates with the immigration court of heaven in session. On the stage are St. Peter, presiding over the court, the former faculty of George Washington University applying for admission under the professors' quota, which by this time is very low. The examining board are the students of the class of 1939, long since passed to their rewards. Gabriel and his Pyramiding Trumpets are playing "All God's Chillun Got Of-fices" as the scene opens.

Faculty: Your Honor.

Peter: Pipe down, boys, you've been talking for fifty years, give somebody else a try at it.

Faculty: Appeal the chair!

Peter (aside to a seraphim): Are there enough Delts here? The ayes appear to have it—the ayes have it—carried!

Michael: Here's the first witness.

Peter: Mr. Counsel.

Counsel (aside): Remember, chief, my boys get the magistrates' jobs over in the golden street section for this.

Peter: What have you learned from the defendant?

Counsel: Jay is my shepherd, I shall not want for a job, he maketh me to lie quiet during campaigns, he keepeth me quiet on live issues, he restoreth my false pride.

Peter: Call the second witness.

Partisan: Yes, Bob, pardon me, —your honor.

Gabriel: Hurry this up, boss, or that new conductor, Brusiloff, will beat me out of a job. He's already got the boys swinging to "Truckin' Up the Golden Stairs."

Satan: And boss, if he don't cut that stuff you're going to wear out my gang cooking hot sea food at night for the angels.

Peter: Order, witness what did you learn on earth?

Witness: Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of elections, I will fear no Service, for Pi Phi is with me.

Peter: Bring in that other guy, Gabe.

Gabriel: On the downbeat, Mr. Jibe!

Ivy League: That's me, the G. D. I.

Peter: What have you got to say?

Ivy: Horatio prepareth a council seat for me, he anointeth my brain with soft soap, surely Service, and Sigs, shall not follow me all the days of my life . . .

Peter: But where does the faculty come in?

Witnesses: Maybe we got wrong in our faculty advisers, aren't Bob, and Jay, and Horatio the advisers for majors in Student Club Political Science?

Peter: What's happened to the faculty?

Gabriel: This guy Britt is polling the angels on the turn to swing; Ragatz is working on the integral history of heaven; the law school has an injunction out to keep the pearly gates open; and a little angel is in love with Merriman.

Peter: What sorority?

Gabriel: Kappa pledge. All of them are pledging Kappa since the girls got out of politics.

Peter: Where's that guy Bennett?

Gabriel: He claims that half of my swing band haven't been here two semesters yet, and I guess I'll have to let Lucifer take them over awhile.

Class of '39: Well, judge, we've got the verdict, . . . send them home.

Michael: Can't do it boss, the last plane just left.

Peter (aside): Come back in a few minutes, boys, and the gates will be open.

Faculty: But your honor, the constitution!

Peter: Quiet! the boys will be down from the house by that time. Any other business?

Gabriel: I move that we give F. F. three minutes.

Peter: And here comes the Theatre Board with the CURTAIN!

DEAR CLASSMATES

and anyone else who reads this volume:

The fact that this book ever saw the light of day is only partly due to the bewildered efforts of the co-editors. When we started in, we had little notion of anything that went into a yearbook except paper, and we doubt if we would know any more now if it were not for the assistance and cooperation of a good many kind souls.

OUR THANKS

To the entire staff of THE CHERRY TREE for their wholehearted enthusiasm.

To the advertisers for their patronage.

To Albee Studios for the way in which they did our photographic work.

To The Standard Engraving Company for its fine work and much needed assistance.

To Benson Printing Company for its help in organizing the book.

To the one who is mainly responsible for helping us to see the light of day, Mr. W. A. Daniel, Representative of The Benson Printing Company.
